Sutter's Insatiable Need for Greed

In bargaining today, Sutter provided us with their most recent package, which they characterized as their "last, best and final." As they readily admitted, it was essentially the same as their "first, worst, and cursed" proposal that they gave us back in November. They continue to demand that your bargaining team "compromise" on Sutter's proposals; what they really mean is that they want us to negotiate over exactly how much we will let Sutter take out of the pockets of nurses and other employees, while Sutter Health and ABSMC continue to accrue massive profits, and continue to pay exorbitant salaries to their top executives.

Meanwhile, nurses at all the Sutter facilities that are facing takeaways have voted to authorize the bargaining teams to call for strike action if and when necessary. Come to the next Sutter Joint Bargaining Council meeting to get the latest updates from all facilities, and help plan for future action.
